

By the King.

Hereas Thomas Percy Gentleman, and some other his Confederates, persons knowen to be so vtterly corrupted with the Superstition of the Romish Religion, as seduced with the blindnesse thereof, and being otherwise of lewde life, insolent disposition, and for the most part of desperate estate, haue beene discovered to haue contriued the most horrible treason that euer entred into the hearts of men, against our Person, our Children, the whole Nobilitie, Cleargie, and Commons in Parliament assembled, which howsoever cloaked with zeale of Superstitious Religion, aymed in deed at the Subuersion of the State, and to induce an horrible confusion of all things, In which they and all others of bankrupt and necessitous estate, might haue those of better abilitie for a pray to repaire their beggerly Fortunes, and haue proceeded so farre some of them in their deuillish Attempts, as to assemble in Troupes in our Counties of Warwicke and Worcester, Where they haue broken vp a Stable, and taken out horses of diuers Noblemen and Gentlemen, within our Towne of Warwicke, And no doubt but doe proceede further in their purposes, seeking to raise some Rebellion in our Realme, and will with many fained and false Allegations seeke to seduce diuers of our Subiects, especially with shew of Religion: Although wee are by good experience so well perswaded of the Loyaltie of diuers of our Subiects (though not professing true Religion) that they doe as much abhorre this detestable conspiracie as our Selve, and will bee ready to doe their best endeuours (though with expence of their blood) to suppress all Attemptors against our safetie and the quiet of our State, and to discover whomsoever they shall suspect to be of Rebellious or Traiterous disposition: Yet haue wee thought good by this our open Declaration, to giue Warning and aduertisement to all our Subiects whatsoever, of that horrible purpose of Percies and his complices, and to distinguish betweene all others, calling themselves Catholickes, and these detestable Traitors: And therefore doe denounce and publish all the persons hereunder named, Adherents to Percy, to be Traitors knowen, and that all others are in the same case, who shall in any wise either receiue, abett, cherish, entertaine, or adhere vnto them, or not doe their best endeuours to apprehend and take them.

Wherefore wee will and commaund all our Lieutenants, Deputy lieutenants, Sheriffes, Iustices of Peate, Maiors, Bayliffes, Constables, and all other our Officers, Ministers and louing Subiects to take knowledge thereof, and to doe their best duties herein, as they will answere the contrary at their vttermost perill: Not doubting, but that they all, without regard of their pretence of Religion, will with one heart and will, employ themselves for the suppressing, apprehending, detecting, and discovering of all sorts of persons any wayes likely to bee priue to a Treason so hatefull to God and men, and implying in it the vtter subuersion of this Realme, and dignitie thereof.

And Where wee doe heare that many do spread abroad, that this Conspiracie was intended onely for matter of Religion, and that forreine Princes our neighbours are interested therein, which Rumors are divulged by busie persons both to scandalize the Amitie wherein wee stand with all Christian Princes and States, and to giue vnto lewde persons hope that they shall be backed in their enterprises by great Potentates: we doe declare, that wee cannot admitte so inhumane a thought, as to conceiue that any Prince, of what Religion soeuer, could giue eare to so Sauage and Barbarous an imagination: And that by such examinations as hitherto haue beene taken, wee finde them all, and their ministers cleere from any suspicion of priuitie thereunto: Whereof one infallible argument to vs is, that all the Ministers of forraine Princes, which are now here, made earnest sute to vs to bee present in the place that day. And therefore we do admonish and charge all our Subiects, that they shal not speake of any the Princes our neighbours, or their Ambassadors, otherwise then reverently, vpon paine of our displeasure, and to bee punished as persons seeking the disturbance of the Peace, wherein we liue with our sayd Neighbours.

Giuen at our Pallace of Westminster, the seuenth day of Nouember, in the third yeere of our Reigne of Great Britaine, France and Ireland.

God saue the King.
